Concrete Technology Corporation pioneered the development of the prestressed concrete industry in the United States. When founders Thomas and Arthur Anderson built the initial production facility in 1951, it was the first prestressing factory building in this country. The modest 4-employee company was the culmination of a year-long investigation by the Andersons throughout Europe to see the few prestressed concrete structures in existence at that time.

Today, the 30-acre plant includes over 120,000 sf of enclosed production facilities; a state-of-the-art batch plant; welding, rebar, and carpentry fabrication shops; bridge, gantry, and mobile cranes; and shipping by truck, rail, and barge. The result of this is that literally thousands of bridges, buildings, piers, tanks, floats and other structures throughout the Pacific Northwest and Alaska have been built with Concrete Tech products.

Concrete Technology Corporation is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

The Rachel Corrie Foundation for Peace & Justice is a grassroots, 501(c)3 non-profit organization that conducts and supports programs that foster connections between people, that build understanding, respect, and appreciation for differences, and that promote cooperation within and between local and global communities. The foundation encourages and supports grassroots efforts in pursuit of human rights and social, economic, and environmental justice, which we view as pre-requisites for world peace. Continuing the work begun and envisioned by our daughter, Rachel Corrie, our initial emphasis has been on Israel/Palestine. We conduct and support projects that educate for peace and justice, that foster connections and understanding between peoples on global and local levels, that promote the use of art and the written word in fostering justice and peace, and that encourage individual grassroots participation in bringing to fruition a positive world vision. Interning with the Rachel Corrie Foundation (RCF) provides a meaningful way to work towards peace and justice and gain a variety of skills. We are looking for passionate and reliable students with strong organizational skills, excellent writing skills, the ability to communicate clearly and effectively and the willingness to learn and grow. The focus of the MSW program is one of advanced clinical practice working with individuals, families and groups. The mission and values of the School are consistent with the context of the program since its foundation focus is on enhancement of human well-being through the use of the person and environment construct, the alleviation of poverty and oppression, the eradication of discrimination and economic injustice, affirmation and empowerment to populations-at-risk and creation of environments for positive change, growth and development that allow people to live in freedom and dignity. The advanced year prepares students to work in social work clinical practice with individuals, families and groups within a variety of service settings. Students in the advanced clinical year build on the knowledge, values and skills gained in the Foundation Year/BSW degree.

As students advance, the curriculum assists them with integrating the professional use of self, supervision, transference, counter-transference, critical thinking, issues of diversity and the implementation of the NASW Code of Ethics. Clinical social work practice and methods require students to understand and use evidenced, theory based practice for clients, perform assessments and have the ability and critical thinking skills to evaluate practice interventions. Preparing skilled clinical social workers within the context of the School’s vision, mission and values is in harmony with the purpose of social work education.
